Broadspire® UK Case Manager Receives Award from Chartered Society of Physiotherapy

Devdeep Ahuja wins prestigious Robert Williams International Award

Milton Keynes, UK - Broadspire® UK is delighted to announce that rehabilitation case manager Devdeep Ahuja has been selected to present at the world's leading physical therapy meeting in recognition of his published research.

Devdeep will reveal the findings of his research at the World Confederation for Physical Therapy (WCPT) International Congress in Singapore in May 2015 after winning the Robert Williams International Award for his latest academic paper.

Announced every four years, the Robert Williams International Award is given to the best abstracts for studies carried out by Chartered Society of Physiotherapy (CSP) members. The award provides financial support to enable members to present their studies at the WCPT Congress.

Devdeep's winning research looks at the factors which influence rehabilitation adherence in patients undergoing outpatient musculoskeletal physiotherapy treatment, which can have a significant impact on healthcare costs and treatment outcomes

Deborah Edwards, head of rehabilitation, Broadspire UK says: "We are thrilled to see that Devdeep is highly recognised by international healthcare professionals for his academic achievements. The CSP's recognition with this award shows that our employees are at the vanguard of rehabilitation case management in support of our clients in the insurance and corporate risk management sectors."
