Penang Floods – Malaysia

Typhoon like winds and torrential rain lashed about 80% of the State of Penang from the afternoon of Saturday 4 November 2017 and lasted until the early morning of Sunday 5 November 2017. The extreme weather caused severe and widespread floods, various landslides and toppling of trees in the State.

The heavy rain was reduced to drizzle by the afternoon of Sunday 5 November 2017. The flood water in Penang Island has now receded with only certain areas in Perai and Bukit Mertajam still immersed in flood water.

The main areas affected are:

Island	Mainland
Georgetown	Permatang Tinggi
Batu Ferringhi	Mak Mandin
Farlim	Prai
Bayan Baru	Bukit Mertajam
Bayan Lepas

The current situation has improved but the Authorities remain cautious and they are monitoring the situation closely with further heavy rain forecast over the State in the next seven days. The Meteorological Department has issued a yellow alert (continuous rain and strong winds) for Penang as well as Kedah, Perlis and Perak.

Our team of adjusters is already on the ground covering the affected areas. If you have any claims which require our attention, please contact any of our personnel.
